

Control cables – flexible and screened

HELUKABEL® delivers flexible control cables with different insulations and outer jacket materials, screened and unscreened with an optimum of price-earning ratio.

Partial view of drag chain test centre in factory Windsbach

Works photo: HELUKABEL®

Works photo: Schmid machine-building

Control cables can be used in machinery production and production lines as direct line or connection cable for measuring, signal and control features, for computer systems, for control devices of tool making machines, conveyor belts and conveyor systems.

It goes without saying that we also demand a high quality standard for our control cable as well as for all other cables.

We hold an extensive stock of cables.