
Data and Computer cables

Due to the increasing data transfer between machines and equipment the higher standards in data and computer applications are necessary.

Besides standard processes the requirement of precise data transfer must be the first and foremost.

Depending on the requirement, the HELUKABEL® customer can choose the data or computer cable from an extensive stock, where almost all cable constructions are ex stock.

If solid, flexible or high flexible constructions, with corresponding screening if necessary, this all depends of the required application. Our technical advisers are ready to inform you.

We can also manufacture cables according to your specific requirements with a minimum order quantity. For special enquiries please fill-in our attached enquiry form.
